VOLUME 2. NO. 19

West Liberty, Morgan County, Kentucky, Thursday, October 19, 1911.

WHOLE NUMBER 71.

Excerpts From Speech of Hon. J. M. Kendall at Highland Park.

Everybody who knows me knows my admiration for and confidence in the statesman from Richmond whose name heads our State ticket. As Lord Plunkett said of Henry Grattan, the friend by whose confidence I was honored, by whose wisdom I was instructed, by whose example I was guided. We are told that McCreary, when elected, will be dominated by a petty faction of machine politicians. It is very hard for me, knowing him as I do, to dignify this charge even by a denial. To any man familiar with his past experience with machines, and we are all so familiar, the suggestion is preposterous, I was about to say idiotic—I will use a milder word and denounce it as lunatic. As someone recently remarked, I believe it was Col. Watterson, no man or set of men ever yet dominated McCreary and stronger and subtler knights than now walk the political carpet have tried it.

I will venture to say, and I measure my words carefully, that not since he ran for Governor years ago, and not then, has there been a nominee for Governor of Kentucky who has shown, in the discussion of public questions, so much of courage, conviction and zeal. I was near saying ability as James B. McCreary has imported into the campaign now on. If there has been one such, one who has shown, in my time, a wider breadth of view, a manhood at once courteous, conservative and courageous, with a character rising like an Alpine precipice in rugged grandeur above the ranting demagogues of the hour, adding dignity and giving respectability to political discussion. If there has been one such, it is James B. McCreary.

McCreary in all these shining qualities I search my memory in vain to recall that man. He has something about him of the antique, something of the brave days of old when there were still giants in the land and we may well and confidently challenge the citadel of privilege to send forth from its lofty portals to do battle against us, a champion worthy and able to break a lance for truth with this our redoubtable advocate of popular rights, the strongest in the State. Show me one who will add to his stature in all that goes to make a great man, one more fishid in manhood, manners and language. Lucky indeed will each and all of his detractors be if when they reach his age so much good can be said of them and so little bad to their discredit. His congressional career, with his second administration of the Governorship as its capstone, will go down in history as the golden age of Kentucky, illuminating its every page with an added glory.

This is an universal sentiment, or rather I should say belief, wherever I have been and I have traveled widely in my own section recently, that if the people can't elect McCreary in spite of the money and magic lanterns sent out by the interests to buy the corrupt and bamboozle the ignorant we might as well hang up the fiddle and the bow, and make Pennsylvania a deed to Kentucky. Not here in Morgan county, next to Madison, the banner McCreary county in the recent State primary, but everywhere throughout this fine hill country, in Floyd county where a scattered remnant of those who wore the gray yet bear the burdens of approaching age and excessive taxation, but amongst the peaks of Pike, with its awakening buzz and hum of multiplied industries and high upon the tall mountain tops where the gray peaks of the Cumberlands glitter in the morning sun, where the storms brew rains that fructify the earth, where the clouds crash and the lightnings play the sentiment of the human heart longs for a change in Old Kentucky and the name high above all others is "McCreary."

As a soldier he feared God and nothing else; as a citizen, by upholding law and order, he has striven for the common good of a common and beloved country of which Kentucky is the heart and center and the brightest spot the glory and prestige of which has ever lain nearest his heart, the object of his chief love. And the proud old Commonwealth, not to be out done by this noble, loyal, loving son is going to make ample amendment and reparation for the passionate and unkind treatment five years ago.

G. O. P. Present New Features

Campaigning With Graphophones and Moving Picture Show.

The Republican rally advertised to take place at the courthouse Tuesday night was pulled off according to schedule. The new features: Phonographic reproductions of speeches of Judge O'Rear, Senator Bradley and others and moving pictures were introduced. A short speech was made by Judge A. N. Cisco, of this city, Mr. Fred Vaughan, of Paintsville, who was billed to speak, failed to come. The court room was pretty well filled mostly women and children. About forty or fifty voters were present, nearly half of whom were Democrats. Enthusiasm didn't run very high but Judge Cisco promised the people that before the election is past the Republicans would show them a bigger time than the Democrats did when Big Ollie James was here.

Rip Van Winkle and Sunbonnet Sue;

From whence do you come and who the devil are you?

You're children of Jno. Langley, Cabe Power and O'Rear. But it matters damed little just who you are.

You've made your debut but you've not come to stay.

When they resort such methods they've seen their best day. Their castle is now tottering, it's bound to come down;

It's up to Bill Bradley to look to his crown.

By the grace of Judge O'Rear he wears it you know;

It fits a little crooked but makes a nice show.

So here's to Sunbonnet Sue and Uncle Rip Van.

Preserve your daddies' laurels for them if you can.

Justice Harlan Answers Call

Long And Useful Career Is At An End.

Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan, of the Supreme Court of the United States, died at his home in Washington, D. C., Saturday, the 14th, Inst. Justice Harlan was a Kentuckian of the truest type, a profound scholar, a faithful churchman and an eminent jurist. He was a man of his own convictions and not afraid to follow them. The judicial crime of the highest tribunal in the land will never fall on the shoulders of a more worthy man.

WILL MAKE FIGHT FOR FREE SUGAR

John Arbuckle, Sugar Refiner and Coffee Manufacturer Will Make Fight at Next Session of Congress.

Just before sailing for Europe to-day John Arbuckle, the sugar refiner and coffee manufacturer, issued, a statement strongly attacking the tariff on raw sugar, declaring it to be a scheme for the benefit of the beet sugar interest. In his statement Mr. Arbuckle said: I have not been well and am going abroad to rest and recuperate in preparation for the fight to be made in Congress at its next session for free sugar. I propose to devote all of my time and all of my ability to the abolition of all imports duties on raw sugar, a most wicked tax on a food necessity of all our people. It taxes the man who works for a dollar a day as much as it taxes an investor or Mr. Rockefeller. Each eats, or at least needs the same amount of sugar, and they pay not according to their ability, but according to their needs, reversing an elemental rule of taxation.

Think Seriously Vote Intelligently

Ditonian Asks Some Pertinent Questions and Gives Some Sage Advice.

As the election draws closer it behooves every voter to think seriously what relation the result is going to bear to his own welfare; and still more seriously should he consider what it will mean to all the people of the State, as a whole. We are living in times when the cost of living has so increased that it threatens hunger for multitudes of the poor, not only in our own land, but throughout the countries of the world. Hunger makes men desperate. Already in some of the cities of Europe the poorer classes have risen in arms and demanded bread. They are being answered by presented bayonets of the soldiery. If the daily bread of the poor continue to grow dearer here in our own land, who can answer how far away are riots and uprisings here? "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is a maxim too true to ever grow trite.

We should ask ourselves whether the political policies of a country have anything to do with the proper distribution of wealth. Do they affect this present ominous question of high prices of food and clothing? The day is past when politics was an inherited prejudice; it has become to be the graver matter of the people's present welfare.

And so we say each voter should study for himself whether governmental policies have anything to do with those vital concerns of life. If not why did wheat jump four cents on the bushel in five minutes, after the Reciprocity treaty was defeated in Canada? Why does your clothes cost you so much more than the wool and the labor cost the manufacturer? Why did you have to pay so much more for shoes after the passage of the Dingley tariff bill? These questions are only examples; you can ask yourself a hundred more like them. It stands to reason, and no honest man who has studied the question doubts, that the consumer is the one who in the wind-up pays the tariff tax on any protected article.

John Langley said at Ashland a few days ago: "I am a James G. Blaine and William McKinley, protection republican, and I stand ready to do battle for national republican politics—next year." Continuing, he said: "If there is any one who doubts the acquiescence in these sentiments of Judge Edward C. O'Rear, then I say to him that he does not know the man."

Langley is O'Rear's manager, and is supposed to speak advisedly. He has answered the question which O'Rear himself has dodged for more than a month. Senator McCreary could never get O'Rear to say whether he endorsed Taft's vetoes of the cotton bill, wool bill and farmer's free list bill. Langley got into a big Republican crowd with brass bands a lot of yelling, and under the excitement he let drive and told the truth about it. Of course, every one knows O'Rear endorsed those vetoes; Senator McCreary knew it when he asked him the question.

And have you noticed how squeamish they are about national issues? O'Rear is crying out all over the State that this State election has nothing to do with national affairs. Let's see. Wouldn't a Republican legislature mean a Republican Senator from Kentucky? Would that affect national affairs? O'Rear is trying to beat Ollie James just the same as he is trying to beat McCreary. He wants John W. Langley or Caleb Powers to get Ollie James' place in the Senate of the United States, and yet he says this election has nothing whatever to do with national affairs. Let us come closer to his living place: Suppose O'Rear were governor; then suppose Ollie James should be elected to the U. S. Senate and should resign or die. Don't you know that O'Rear would appoint Langley or Cale Powers to fill the vacancy? Would that affect national affairs? Again, suppose the Republican ticket should be elected this fall. Don't you know that every one of them would be on the stump next year bawling for taft and a high protective tariff? A State officer naturally exerts a superior force by the very reason of his position. Would the combined force of a whole team of State officers using their official prestige for the Republican ticket in 1912 affect the vote of Kentucky in a national race? Then add to the officers themselves all their appointees who, of course, would be republicans, all using their official power to carry Kentucky for Taft. And if Kentucky should cast her vote for Taft, would that affect national affairs?

Let no Democrat suffer himself to be deluded. Republican victory in Kentucky this year would add untold moral strength to the Republican ticket in the national election next year. More to the point, it would give the Republicans another Senator from Kentucky.

Let us admonish every Democrat to get to work for the Democratic ticket, and work 'till the last hour on election day. Don't say you have no influence; for you do have influence, every man has, And Democrats, one and all, let's every one of us be promptly at the polls on election day. Let this be one time that old Morgan's Democracy can boast of the biggest victory for the ticket ever recorded.

Heave and set! Everybody!—NOW.

DITONIAN.

Unveiling of Morgan Monument.

Erected to The Memory of Gen. John Hunt Morgan and His Men.

The unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of General John Hunt Morgan and His Men, which was held in Lexington, Ky., on Oct. 18, was an event of wide-spread interest. This monument which is given by the United Daughters of the Confederacy has cost $15,000.00 to produce and it stands, not only as a memento of the great Confederate General, but also as a beautiful remembrance of the splendid efforts of these still more splendid women who have toiled faithfully in the work of raising the funds with which to defray the expenses of erecting the monument.

JEFFERSON COUNTY SCHOOL.

Kentucky Out of Step With the March of Education.

If you had not driven twelve miles from big, throbbing, pulsing Louisville along perfect roadways sprinkled with oil you would think you were far out in some rural community when you gaze at Rocky Hill school. It seems impossible for such a schoolhouse to be tolerated in a county as rich and prosperous as Jefferson.

Its style of architecture is severely simple. This idea of extreme simplicity is carried out in the veranda of red corrugated iron supported on plain 2 by 4 studding.

If the building, the main building, looks better, the old coal house is much worse. It looks as if after years of wear and tear the neighbors had felt sorry for it and had had something of a donation party. This, of course, is merely a surmise, but it is the only possible solution to the general makeup of the building. Evidently one neighbor had donated some old red roofing tin. Another neighbor, seeing the need of a door, had sent over one that had been cut "kluder whopper jawed" and would

THE DOOR WAS "KINDER WHOPPER JAWED" not fit anywhere—then, having no hinges, it had been tacked on anyway and left standing wide open for the weeds to grow about it.

Jefferson county, with its trolley lines, its splendid roads, its wealth, should be an object lesson to the rest of the state in schools and school equipment, but she is just where the others are.

The whole state is out of step with the march of education.

MOVED THE LECTURER.

Church Too Good For Him, but Schoolhouse Was Just the Place.

The man who was to give an illustrated lecture at Deer Creek sat on the steps of the Deer Creek church with his gipsy and gas drums about him. Seventy-three came and went; the early summer twilight deepened while a family of screech owls discussed their affairs under their breath; 8 o'clock came and still no audience. A buggy rattled on the road below, and a voice called shrilly:

"Hello! Anybody up there?"

"Yes, and I want to get in to put my lantern in place," answered the lecturer.

"Didn't you hear that we had changed the place?" queried the voice.

"No."

"Well, we did. You better get your things in your wagon and come down to the schoolhouse, half a mile down the road, for the folks is there waiting for you."

"How did you happen to change the place of the lecture at the last moment?"

"It was this way: You see, we knew you had to have a big light in your lantern—oil or kerosene or other—and we knew, too, that you had to have a sheet or sunshade big and white to throw the pictures on to and it would have to be tacked on to the wall. We have just had put down a brand new carpet on the church and papered the walls, so we were afraid you would spill oil on the carpet or punch holes in the new wall paper tacking up your sheet. You see, we were afraid you'd hurt the church some way, so we moved you down here because you couldn't hurt the schoolhouse at all."

The Boy Understood.

One of the educational committee in Louisville had aimed on his button and went out onto the street for a paper. While the boy was counting out the pennies he caught sight of the white and blue button. He smiled and got onto his tiptoes and read slowly:

"My $ for Improvement Kentucky schools."

Again he smiled and, reaching out a grimy paw, exclaimed:

"Put it there and shake. I'm with you fellows, all right."

Boots and Shoes.

Boots are supposed to have been the invention of the Carlians. They were mentioned by Homer 907 B. C. Grecian women possessed twenty-two kinds of footwear, which may be classed as those which cover all the foot up to the ankle and those which simply tied on the top of the foot with wide ribbons or straps. The practice of shoe and sandal wearing can be traced back for some thousands of years and is probably of eastern origin. Frequent mention is made of the shoe in the Bible, from the book of Exodus to the Acts, and there is mention made of a shoe latchet as early as the time of Abraham.

Boots and Shoes.

Boots are supposed to have been the invention of the Carlians. They were mentioned by Homer 907 B. C. Grecian women possessed twenty-two kinds of footwear, which may be classed as those which cover all the foot up to the ankle and those which simply tied on the top of the foot with wide ribbons or straps. The practice of shoe and sandal wearing can be traced back for some thousands of years and is probably of eastern origin. Frequent mention is made of the shoe in the Bible, from the book of Exodus to the Acts, and there is mention made of a shoe latchet as early as the time of Abraham.

The Tailor to the Trade

Is the Merchant Tailor of the Country. "Slight alterations" in a suit when a man is in a hurry in an attempt to make it fit are always most annoying—particularly when it doesn't fit after the alterations have been made.

No alterations are necessary in clothes that are measured and designed by experts to fit any man's figure, cut and made by the best cutters and tailors in the world.

WE MEAN "BORN'S" CLOTHES

They fit. They hang true and they wear. Material is the best that can be put into any suit at the price and every piece is guaranteed.

Service counts in clothes as well as material and you always get the best and quickest service when you buy Born's Clothes. If they do not fit, if the material is not up to sample—bring them back and get your money—No risk on your part.

Born's Clothes have the value—and it is greater than is given by any other tailors in the world. They do not stop at the value in the cloth in the body of the suit, but Trimmings, Linings, Mohair, everything else that goes into it are all of the very best according to the grade. And they are all guaranteed by a firm whose 35 years of continuous, successful business proves the worth of its guaranty.

Every new style of garment shown and hundreds of samples of cloth of every quality and shade to choose from.

Is the World Growing Better?

Many things are to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully. They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see. 50c at all Druggists.

Frozen Apples.

Apples and potatoes when frozen can be restored in good condition if they are thawed slowly. But when thawed rapidly they become flabby and soon decay. The carpets and other coverings we place over plants in winter do not prevent their freezing and thawing, but they do prevent their freezing and thawing too quickly; hence the benefit.

Oxygen and Hydrogen.

Oxygen gas was discovered by Dr. Priestley about Aug. 1, 1774. Torquet de Mayenne discovered the inflammability of hydrogen in 1656. In 1766 Cavendish proved hydrogen to be an elementary body, and in 1781 he and Watt first showed that in the combination of this gas with oxygen, which takes place when it is burnt, water is produced. Later Lavoisier decomposed water with its elements and gave hydrogen its present name, instead of its old one of inflammable air.

Averts Awful Tragedy.

Timely advice given Mrs. Willoughby, of Marengo, Wis. (R. No. 1) prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. Doctors had said her frightful cough was a "consumption" cough and could do little to help her. After many remedies failed, her aunt urged her to take Dr. King's new discovery. "I have been using it for some time," she wrote, "and the awful cough has almost gone. It also saved my little boy when taken with a severe bronchial trouble." This matchless medicine has equal for throat and lung troubles. Price 50c $1.00 Trial bottle free, Guaranteed by all druggist.

London Tea Shop Girls.

The London tea shopgirl must eke out her wages by angling for tips. There is a good deal of pathos behind her smile. The careless tea drinker does not suspect the irony of her elaborately piled up hair, the satire of her natty high heeled shoes, the mockery of her quick badinage. She looks perfectly light hearted as she darts to and fro among the tables. She has no right to appear tired. She must conceal her fatigue. A melancholy countenance is out of place in a tea shop.—London Opinion.

The Printer's Dream.

From the pen of Louis C. Cramto

Last evening I was talking
With a printer aged and gray,
Who told me of a dream he had,
Just after Christmas day.

While a-snoozing in his office
The vision came to view:
He saw an angel enter, dressed
In garments white and new.

Said the spirit: "I'm from heaven,
The Lord has sent me down
To bring you up to glory;
Put on your golden crown.

"Many merchants you've made richer
(From few received full pay);
While you've grown poorer and poorer—
Your business did decay.

"So we need you up in glory,
For you have labored hard
Until your brow is hoary—
You've earned a great reward."

Then the angel and the printer
Started toward the golden gate;
But when passing close to hadese
The angel murmured "Wait—"

"Here's a nook I wish to show you—
It's the hottest place in hell,
Where the dubs who beat the printer
In awful torment dwell."

The printer saw before him
Old patrons by the score;
And easy chair and fan he grabbed,
And asked for nothing more.

He sat and sat and watched them,
Saw them sizzle, scorch and burn;
And his former debtors saw him
Whichever way he'd turn.

Said the angel: "Come up higher,
And the pearly gates we'll see."
But the printer only answered—
"This is heaven enough for me."

The above is a very suggestive bit of true poetical composition (the rhyme is good and the meter perfect). There are those who will say after reading it: That's no Dream."

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala. "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

You may wonder why Cardui is so successful, after other remedies have failed. The answer is that Cardui is successful, because it is composed of scientific ingredients, that act curatively on the womanly system. It is a medicine for women, and for women only. It builds, strengthens, and restores weak and ailing women, to health and happiness. If you suffer like Mrs. Fincher did, take Cardui. It will surely do for you, what it did for her. It has been suggestee to us by some of our subscribers that we advocate bounty upon the scalps of hawks instead of a hunter's license. Without changing our position on the license question. We believe it to be a good thing and that sportsmen and hunters generally, will agree with us when they understand it. We will say that we are heartily in favor of the bounty on the scalps of hawks, this would indeed be a great protection to the quail. When a hawk locates a covey it rarely lets up until it has gotten the last one. They do their work in early morning when the birds come out to feed.

The destruction of the hawk would not only preserve the quail, but it would protect the poultry as well. Many a young chicken and turkey is carried off by the hawks in the spring to fill the maw of their nestlings.

We would suggest that this matter be taken up with our nominees for Representative and that they be asked to take some action at the next session of the General Assembly.

Not today, Apostle, purist, Reformer, can you hold your saintly hands above the heads of Kentuckians as if pronouncing a benediction, while wailing about the evils of intemperance, and at the same time you are using a jackpot raised by the president of the Kentucky Distiller's Association to further the interests of your campaign. Not today can you hoodwink Kentuckians in this manner, no!

Honestly Judge, isn't it a sickly sensation to see that Gubernatorial Goblin which has haunted you, so persistently for months and years, slowly but surely slipping away, vanishing in the political mist with ne'er a promise to return?

1st Republican:—Aint you disappointed in Judge O'rear?

2nd Republican:—Why dammit, yes! I thought when he was makin all them promises before he got the nomination that he was goin to do great things, but come to think of it, he could do but durned little if he was Governor.

Who said Jim McCreary was too old to make a campaign? The way he has been putting it over O'rear of the "Spotless Ermine" within the last few weeks doesn't spell d-o-t-a-g-e.

How much do you suppose Judge O'rear would give if the memory of that Gault house meeting could only be blotted out, obliterated entirely and remembered by the voters of Kentucky no more and that forever?

Ed's coming, he's seeing, but he's not conquering.

Adieu, dear Judge, adieu! Kentucky will not see your like again.

That "Little Giant of Kentucky Democracy," Alias, E. J. McDermott, is making his presence known in the present campaign.
